

The like perfect competitor attains maximum profit by producing and selling at that rate of output where there is positive difference between total revenue and total cost is greatest.
monopolist

[AEM751] The like perfect competitor attains maximum profit by producing and selling at that rate of output where there is positive difference between total revenue and total cost is greatest.
monopolist

[AEM751] which of these is not a determinant of supply change in demand

[AEM751] Demand of a elastic at a lower levels of output. monopolist's product

[AEM751] A market situation where there are large number of firms in the industry selling homogeneous commodities is called?
perfect competition

[AEM751] If factor prices remain constant the market supply of the commodity increases until the original market supply is re-established, it is called-----.
constant cost industry

[AEM751] Economics contains descriptive statements and propositions about the world.
Positive

[AEM751] which of these is not a determinant of elasticity of demand initial price of the good [AEM751] A group of firms producing the same or at similar products as known? industry