

unplanned

[ARD508] The keeping farm records is more complex than adopting new variety of seeds is an example of which characteristics of an innovation.
complexity

[ARD508] The social change that mainly covers a wide range of activity which leads to complete transformation of people's way of life or the social institution is known as ----- change.
total

[ARD508] That an extension programme should be flexible, so that necessary changes can be made whenever needed, to meet the varying conditions is a principle of -----
--
adaptability

[ARD508] The following are examples of natural physical forces except ----- land

[ARD508] The extent to which an agricultural innovation can be tried in parts or limited scale is known as ----- divisibility

[ARD508] ----- theory D16 posits that social behavior characteristically requires a balance between positive and negative forces.
field

[ARD508] ----- and direct contact change are the two types of contact changes
Selective

[ARD508] Which source of social change is the recombination of existing cultural traits to fashion new things of the rate of its occurrence is directly related to the existing cultural traits?
invention

[ARD508] ----- social change entails direct human intervention in shaping of direction of change towards uniform goal.
planned