

and biological productivity is extremely low compared to more fertile areas.
deserts

[ESM426] In the early stages of succession, it is necessary that grass production is considerably ___ than respiration higher

[ESM426] The total amount of potential food energy produced by green plants is known as ___ Primary Production.
Gross

[ESM426] The ecosystem consists of 2 major parts namely ___ and ___ biotic and abiotic

[ESM426] Trophic level 5 is the level of micro-organisms referred to as ____.
decomposers

[ESM426] ___ is one way inward movement of organism into a population Immigration

[ESM426] A succession added up with a biotic community in which the species perpetuate themselves through the climax such a community is referred to as the ___ community climax

[ESM426] The amount of energy left after respiration is known as ___ Primary Productivity
Not

[ESM426] The most fragile of the ecosystems in the world is the ___ tropical rainforest

[ESM426] ___ is defined "as any area of nature that includes living organisms and non-living substances interacting to produce an exchange of materials between the living and non-living parts".
Ecosystem

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net