

FALSE'

[PHS509] _____ occurs when the sequential switching off and on of certain genes will lead to aging
Programmed longevity

[PHS509] Identify the option that is not a subspecialty in geriatrics
none of the options

[PHS509] The number of people aged 60 years and older will be more than children younger than _____ by the year 2020
5 years

[PHS509] Which suggests that vital components of cells and tissues eventually wear out as a result of constant use, thereby leading to cell damage?
Wear and tear theory

[PHS509] _____ is expressed by way of gene expression which regulates body systems responsible for maintenance, repair and defence systems.
Programmed theory

[PHS509] Select the theory which stated that hormones act as a biological clock that controls how fast the aging process occurs
Endocrine Theory

[PHS509] _____ focus on factors that trigger the aging process.
Biological theories

[PHS509] The role immune system plays on the human body is what Immunological theory emphasises.
TRUE'

[PHS509] A specialist who works to promote health in the elderly while treating other diseases that older adults are prone to is referred to as a _____ geriatrician

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net