

9/10

the only language computer actually understands is _____ machine language

A computer program is a series of _____ instructions

Which of these processes utilizes an array and a few procedures that are used to put and get data from the buffer Buffering

The Programming Language is the language through which we can pass instructions to the user and the system

the binary digit is also known as bit

Which of the functions is performed by the computer?
all of the options

A Computer Language is composed of a set of characters, words and _____ rules

A common method of combining a sequence of bytes to form one unit is known as _____ Framing

A systematic problem solving adopted by the computer includes the following except drawing the program

Which of the following concepts can be employed to achieve a good programming technique?
byte

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net