In which type of conversion is the system installed module by module?

Phased conversion

Which design approach starts from the highest-level module of the hierarchy and proceeds through to lower level?

Top-down design

The main essence of documentation is _____?

To communicate about the system

The following is not part of a System Requirements Specification document

Methodology

All but one of the following is not a characteristic of a System Requirements Specification

It should be non-modifiable _____ is a graphical presentation of the whole database?

Database Schema
_____ is the most important fact finding technique?

Interviews

_____ is a fact finding technique where the system analyst gathers information from individual through face to face interaction?

Interview
_____ are questionnaires which consist of multiple choices, where the respondent can only select from the choices provided?

Fixed formed questionnaires

For a successful Joint Application Development session, the facilitator should ensure all but one of the following.
Ensure technical jargons is fully used