1. Ping can _____
All of the options

2. Datagram switching is done at _____ layer of OSI model
Network

3. The receiver of the data controls the amount of data that are to be sent by the sender is referred as _____.
Flow control

4. Which methods are commonly used in Server Socket class?
Public Socket accept ()

5. _____ layer is responsible for process-to-process delivery.
Transport

6. An application-level protocol in which a few manager stations control a set of agents is called _____
SNMP

7. Secure shell (SSH) network protocol is used for all of the options

8. Transport layer aggregates data from different applications into a single stream before passing it to _____ Network

9. Which of the following cannot be considered a peripheral device?
printer

10. A network consists of what minimum number of entities sharing resources and information two