an important design consideration.
WAN

[CIT854] The stations that join two or more local area networks and address these issues are called _____ routers

[CIT854] The use of _____ computers in a network, rather than a single large system, eases growth of computing power.
multiple

[CIT854] The decision as to how much disk space each user will need is essentially _____ and made when the machine is purchased.
static

[CIT854] The _____ is often used to describe the part of the network that interconnects the other parts of the network.
Backbone

[CIT854] _____ management handles additions, deletions, and changes to the network.
Configutarion

[CIT854] A software that performs function, on behalf of its principal is known as _____ agent

[CIT854] Software like_____ can provide disk capacity management by automatically storing data where it can be kept most economically.
OMINISTORAGE

[CIT854] _____ is the collection of networked computers that reside within a small physical building usually not beyond 1 kilometer.
LAN

[CIT854] The _____ system is to protect the internal networking from being lacked or cracked externally.
firewall