

crust of the earth that pose a threat to life and property, for example, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, tsunamis (tidal waves) and landslides
Geological

[CSS244] Natural threats can further be divided into two: $\hat{A}^!$ and major.
minor

[CSS244] Security threat can be simply divided into two, namely natural and $\hat{A}^!$
....threats
manmade

[CSS244] Climatic hazards basically include hurricane, $\hat{A}^!$and drought.
flood

[CSS244] Climatic threats or Hazards are simply those types of threat that involve a rapid change in the $\hat{A}^!$, capable of posing a danger to the wellbeing and survival of any people or communities.
climatic conditions

[CSS244] Examples of major natural $\hat{A}^!$may include hurricane (cyclone), earthquake, drought and flood.
threats

[CSS244] Manmade threats usually involve those threats or hazards that are brought about by $\hat{A}^!$ actions (deliberately or accidentally).
human

[CSS244] Climatic hazards are actually created by one or a combination of factors which may include heavy $\hat{A}^!$ droughts, wildfires, among others
rainfall,

[CSS244] The third type of security threat include all forms of $\hat{A}^!$threat or hazard.
environmental

[CSS244] Security threat can be described as capacity of any human and non-human elements to destroy the $\hat{A}^!$of other considered as targets.
vital Interests