

---- type of behaviours
Deficit

[EGC812] A process whereby specific cues or signals in the environment are initiated in order to increase desired behaviour is known as ----
Stimulus control

[EGC812] Process experiential therapy was developed by Ãçâ,-Â!..
Greenberg

[EGC812] Gestalt therapy was developed by Ãçâ,-Â!..
Frederick Perls

[EGC812] Mention the two broad types of behaviour ...and Ãçâ,-Â!..
Adaptive and maladaptive behaviours

[EGC812] Behaviours that could be found during assessment include all Except ----- behaviour
Abnormal

[EGC812] The theory that the mind is a blank sheet at birth was propounded by Ãçâ,-Â!..
John Locke

[EGC812] The therapy that establishes a psychological climate in which clients can feel unconditionally accepted, understood and valued is known as Ãçâ,-Â!..
Clientcentred therapy

[EGC812] The aim of Science of Behaviour is to .. Ãçâ,-Â!..
Predictct and control behaviour

[EGC812] Deviance as a label, subjective experience and a voluntary act is the view of -
---- Sociologists
Humanistic

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net