The arrow in phrase structure rules should be interpreted as ----------------.
a.
ungrammaticality
b.
correctness
c.
describe as
d.
expand as ANS

The principle which states that every _____ must be marked for case is called case filter.
a.
NP ANS

The context-sensitivity of transformations is known as _____ features.
a.
descriptive
b. prescriptive
c. subcategorisation ANS

The aim of writing a _____ is to give a full account of all the facets of linguistic knowledge.
a.
grammar ANS

The study of competence is the study of grammars which are _____ real.
a.
literarily
b. phonetically
c. psychologically ANS

The phrase marker is a set of strings that assigns a phrase structure interpretation to _____ string.
a.
an intermediate
b.

a terminal ANS

The noun phrase which ends a prepositional phrase is called its _____
a.
qualifier
b.
example
c.
modifier
d.
complement ANS

The rules of language are generalised _____ statements that summarise the way acceptable sentences are produced.
a.
speculative
b. predicatable
c. prescriptive
d.
descriptive ANS

The agent _____ is an actor that performs the action in a sentence.

a.
q-role
b.
b-role ANS

The condition that must be satisfied by the grammar of all languages is made up of _____ parts.
a.
four
b.
two ANS