

it includes the ability to act and a competence to perform Technology

[ENT415] _____ defined entrepreneurship from a psychological perspective McClelland (1967; 1971)

[ENT415] _____ emerging aspect of entrepreneurship that is beginning to arrest the attention of researchers and organizations technology entrepreneurship

[ENT415] _____ phase is particularly critical for innovation driven by technology-based entrepreneurship to occur.
Development of prototypes

[ENT415] feasibility study has the following roles to play in the development of the technological venture: ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ _____
All of the above

[ENT415] _____ are of the opinion that entrepreneurship is a risk-taking activity.
Cantillon (1755) and Say (1803)

[ENT415] _____ as an instrument that a firm can use to evaluate for its products, services and markets when determining on the best way to achieve future B6 SWOT

[ENT415] _____ is a critical but optional aspect of technology innovation entrepreneurship development.
Patenting

[ENT415] _____ is a requirement in the development of a technology-based Appraisal Study

[ENT415] _____ is perceived to focus on individuals who desire to initiate or expand a business while SMEs development on the other hand focuses on developing the enterprise irrespective of whether the individual in charge can be considered entrepreneurial or not Entrepreneurship development