

___ are those that occur across the whole spectrum of illnesses.
Chronic Illness

Patient idealizes the doctor, taking form in transference.
The Seductive Patient

This applies when the patient is seriously ill or being treated on an emergency basis in a state of relative helplessness because of a severe injury or lack of consciousness.
Active-passivity

___ this refers to a state of being aware of a stimulus or event
Conscious

This theory is based on the assumption that most human behaviour is under voluntary control and hence is largely guided by intention.
Theory of Reasoned Action

All organisms are capable of _____ stimuli
Automatic responses

A _____ is a simple, inborn, automatic response to a stimulus by a part of an organism
Reflex

The term behaviour generally refers to actions or reactions of an organism in response to ___,
Stimuli

Maturity of ego functioning and object relationships Psychological

___ defined Illness as the experience of suffering and discomfort, which may or may not be related to objective physical pathology.
Bishop (1994)