

and how they should help explain the various types of political analysis
Analysis

[POL214] The foundation of political Science is _____ Normative

[POL214] A form of analysis concerned with the clarification of cocepts is called _____ analysis
Concept

[POL214] _____ approach to Political analysis is the discovery and application of moral notions in the sphere of political relations and practice as it deals with inquiry into the problems of man and society Normatve

[POL214] Manipulation is a type of _____ Power

[POL214] The concept _____ simply and largely means to administer and organise men and materials to achieve set goals Political

[POL214] Indirect democracy can also be called _____ Representative

[POL214] Constitutional studies is one of the varites of _____ Institutionalism

[POL214] _____ is when a power holder controls or influences the behaviour of others in a manner that is secretive and unfair without making explicit the behaviour he/she wants them to perform Manipulation

[POL214] The theory of _____ is that knowledge is primarily received through experience by means of using the five senses Empiricism

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net