

No

[PPL343] The law regulating the dissolution of marriage can be divided into Law regulating dissolution of marriage by the death of one or both of the spouses, divorce and the law regulating annulment of marriages

[PPL343] Family law consists majorly of Æçâ,¬Â!Æçâ,¬Â!Æçâ,¬Â!.. Broad fields
Three

[PPL343] For a customary marriage to be valid, it must confirm to the essential requirements except one Present

[PPL343] The law of divorce consists of the rules on Æçâ,¬Â!Æçâ,¬Â!
Grounds for divorce and rules on the consequences of divorce

[PPL343] Marriage is a contract where the parties enter into legal relations involving Æçâ,¬Â!..
Rights and obligations

[PPL343] As regards Æçâ,¬Â!Æçâ,¬Â!Æçâ,¬Â!Æçâ,¬Â!., the law of divorce determines who is to have guardianship of a child of divorcing parties
The interests of the children

[PPL343] The law in respect of marriage deals with which of the following The dissolution of marriage, the consequences and with the legal requirements for a valid marriage

[PPL343] The legal consequences of marriage are those which cannot be changed by the spouses because They are prescribed by law and cannot be altered

[PPL343] Family law, is not completely independent from other sources of law no answer

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net