

living organisms and the physical and chemical environment in which they live is called Ecology

[AEA510] Resources that are capable of regenerating themselves within a relatively short period, provided the environment in which they are nurtured is not unduly disturbed are?
Renewable resources

[AEA510] The application of economics principles in the study of the environmental resources is called?
Environmental economics

[AEA510] Non-renewable resources include the following substances clay, sand, sand, copper

[AEA510] Resources have three main characteristics except Non extinction

[AEA510] Aquatic ecosystem is classified into freshwater, marine, coastal, mangrove and island

[AEA510] The relationship that exist between living organisms, the environment and the factors that affects them is called Ecosystem

[AEA510] The major components within the ecosystem are lithosphere, hydrosphere, biosphere and cryosphere [AEA510] Depletion of wildlife population is known as defaunation

[AEA510] Maximum numbers of human beings which the environment can support is called Social carrying capacity

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net