

Output signals are usually called what?
Y(s) or y(t)

What is used to convert the digital signal back to analog?
DAC

One of these is a hybrid network device.
Multilayer Switch

Input signals are usually called what?
x(t) or X(s)

What do we use to connects a computer network to a home theatre?
Digital Media Reciever

Categorizing computer network by their geographic scope does not include
PEER-TO-PEER

Which of the following is an application of digital signal processing?
All of the options

Which of these is not a networking device?
Radio

What is a computer network service which allows clients to make indirect network connections to other services?
Proxy

Which device combines several electrical signals into a single signal?
Multiplexer