The performance measure success can be measured in the following ways except speed or efficiency of the agent

An individual who studies how human experts make decisions and translates the rules into terms that a computer can understand is called knowledge engineer

The process concerned with storing, searching and retrieving information Information retrieval

In order to accomplish feats of apparent intelligence, an expert system relies on two components knowledge base and an inference engine

Natural language understanding seems to require extensive knowledge about the outside world and the ability to manipulate it. It is hence referred to as _____ AI-complete problem

Separating words into individual morphemes and identifying the class of the morphemes is called Morphological segmentation

All of the following are examples of agents except Mobile phone

The following are different types of evaluation except internal vs. external evaluation

The fundamental faculties of intelligence are All of the above

A computer application that performs a task that would otherwise be performed by a human expert is called Expert System