

1. What is a question that provide answers to someone such as do young people have better memory than old adult called?

Descriptive research question

2. -----is a question that ensures the existence of reality of subject of attention.

Existence research question

3. An abstract that is analytical schema of a philosophy that relates to a particular situation is known as.

Grounded research

4. What is the symbol for null hypothesis?

Ho

5. Which of this is a type of reliability in social research?

Split-half reliability

6. -----is a description and interpretation of a cultural/social group/ system.

Ethnographic research

7. The study that described the meaning of the live experiences for several individuals about a concept is known as

Phenomenological research

8. A question that dwell on more complex questions of relationship is known as

Relationship research question

9. -----is a probability type of sampling.

Simple random

10. The type of validity is

Content validity

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net