

1. According to Durkheim's Anomie Theory

All of the above

2. According to Freud, unconscious motivations compel people to behave in a criminal manner. This behavior facilitates their apprehension, which will ultimately fulfill their desire for

Punishment

3. Wilson and Hernstein (1985) identified five factors that increase an individual's potential to engage in criminal activity. These five factors are:

Poor family life, engagement in subcultures (such as gangs), positive portrayal of violence and aggression in the media, economic standing of the individual, and scholastic influence

4. In Cohen's subcultural theory of gangs

All of the above

5. A physiological variable that is used to classify personality would be:

Brain electrical activity

6. Subcultural or Process Theories of crime assume that

Criminals are "normal" because they respond to motives that direct their behavior and interact with their environment in the same manner as law-abiding individuals in a non-criminal environment

7. psychodynamic theory of juvenile delinquency, August Aichhorn termed the psychological predisposition toward criminal behavior due to an underdeveloped superego "delinquency."

Latent

8. An individual would be diagnosed with antisocial personality disorder if he or she fulfilled the following criteria

Both A and C

9. According to Merton, some forces driving individuals to pursue illegal means to obtain desired ends include

Both B and C

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net

Join group: T.me/NOUNSTUDENTSFORUM
CLICK TO DOWNLOAD MORE TMA PQ

Empathy has the ability to deter aggressive and/or violent behavior; however, if this empathetic structure is hindered, then the likelihood of that individual causing physical harm to another increases

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net