

Growth hormone deficiency in childhood that has no identifiable cause is called _____ idiopathic

The field of medicine which involves all matters diagnosed at Autopsy such as the cause and determination of time of death is called _____ forensic pathology

_____ is a type of tumor composed of embryonic, primitive, or poorly differentiated cells
malignant tumour

An increase in the amount of organic tissue that results from cell proliferation is called _____ hypergenesis

An inflammation that results from a urinary tract infection that reaches the renal pelvis of the kidney is called _____ nephritis

An inflammatory disease of the tendons that link the vertebrae together is called _____ ankylosing spondylitis

The integration of all levels of functional and morphological information into a coherent model that enables the understanding of perturbed physiological systems is referred to as _____
system pathology

_____ is a common skin disorder that produces thick red plaques covered with silvery scales
psoriasis

Hypophosphataemia is an inherited form of rickets found in _____ boys

Neurological disorders that affect the structure of the brain or spinal cord are collectively called _____ central nervous system diseases

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net