

According to Gibb (1996), there are essentially _____ main reasons for the contemporary interest in entrepreneurship.

3

Small no-growth firms that reproduce rapidly at a rate of over one million a year in the U.S. is described by Birch (1987) as _____ a.

Mica

The typical, large, slow-growth companies that are unresponsive to changes in the economy is described by Birch (1987) as Elephants

One of the followings is not a function of entrepreneurship
Family growth

According to _____ (1987), society is entering an era of unprecedented uncertainty, a world turned upside down.

Peters

____ entrepreneurship is a new form of entrepreneurship

Cultural

the main driver of cultural entrepreneurship

Creativity

New ventures that grow rapidly and are based on significant innovations is described by Birch (1987) as

Gazelles

Birch (1987) presents an exceptionally clear analysis of the contribution of entrepreneurs to the development and growth of the American economy, tracing the relative contributions of _____ major classes of company

3

____ argues that differences in technology, rates of market growth and capital requirement result in different propensities for new firm formation

Structural theory

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net