

10/10

In traditional African societies, the cord of relationship was _____ and was never allowed to go down the drain by mere misunderstanding between parties to the conflict.
harmonious

Arbitration had been one of the _____ methods of resolving conflict in traditional African societies.
significant

In managing traditional African conflicts, seniority was given a _____ such that the mediators were cognizant of the social responsibilities expected from senior.
pride of place

Mediation is an art of _____ in a conflicting situation
intervening

Traditional African mediators have certain characters admirable to the parties to the conflict. Such characters does not include?
None of the above

Mediation was carried out in traditional African societies with some challenges such as _____.
integrity

_____ method prevailed in African conflict resolution model as parties to the conflict necessarily submitted themselves to a neutral third party.
Mediation

Uniquely in traditional African societies, it was observable that one of the parties to the conflict must become _____ after a while.
reasonable

The atmosphere under which African conflict mediation took place is usually transformed from _____ to free and fair dealing not only of the parties to the conflict but also the mediators..
helly and hot

It was _____ for passers-to fold their arms and watch a quarreling duo engaged in physical combat or engaged in tumultuous exchange of abuses.
forbiden

Whatsapp: 08089722160 or click here for TMA assistance

Practice E-exams & Chat with course mates on noungeeks.net